SLEEPING E VOLCANOES

A thin, vapory smoke, lazily ascending from its crater, may be the only visible sign of life in the sleeping volcano; but within is a raging sea of fire, molten rock and sulphurous gases. Those who make their homes in the peaceful valleys below know the danger, and though frequently warned by the rumblings and quakings, these signs of impending erup-tion go unheeded. They are living in fancied security; when the giant

Referee Sharpe sent the men to their corner, and, after allowing them to remain there for three minutes, ordered them back to the center of the ring to renew hostilities.

After the bout Sharpe claimed that this was done by agreement of the parties concerned, but the action has but one precedent in puglism. After the fight Doctor Barish said that Attell had bene struck low. Barish said that Attell had bene struck low.

"Red" Mason, who was back of McClelland, denied that he agreed to any such action. The spectators were dumfounded, and vociferous cries for a decision in favor of McClelland in the thirteenth round were heard in all parts of the house. After the resumption of fighting in the thirteenth round Attell did not appear as one very seriously injured, for he danced around the ring as lively as a kitten and it took all the foot work of McClelland to catch the fleet Abe.

hold him at bay in the scientific end of the game.

The men entered the ring for the main bout at 9:30.

McClelland was accompanied by James Mason of Pittsburg, his backer; Brooklya Tommy Sullivan and Jimmy Dunn, George Munroe and Eddy Trendal acted as sponsors for the little Californian.

The men had hardly entered the ring when they commenced to pound each other. Attell, for the first three rounds, displayed a little more cleverness than his opponent, and on one or two occasions landed stinging uppercuts that made McClelland wince.

But after that period it was the some landed stinging uppercuts that made Mc-Cleiland wince.
But after that period it was the same old story. It was the case of a grueling, slashing fighter against a wary, Jancing boxer, and the fighter won.

From the third to the tenth round Mc-Cleiland fought a free, open fight, while Attell showed an inclination to mix, and had to be repeatedly warned to break.

The fact that McCleiland was a match for him in sparring evidently surprised Attell, for he started to mix things, but the stinging blows of the Pittsburger sew him back after each mix-up.

After the tenth round it was evident that McCleiland was much the stronger and more rugged fighter. From the tenth to the thirteenth Jack would walk in almost open in his efforts to coax a lead from the Californian.

Jack McClelland of Pittsburg proved himself a masterly and sturdy fighter when he defeated Abe Attell of San Francisco in a fifteen-round bout at the West End Club last night before a crowded and enthusiastic house.

THE FINISH. The wallop he gave Attell in this round visibly weakened Abe, and after the breathing spell referred to above he renewed hostilities, but was unable to avoid the savage lunges of the Pittsburg fighter. Attell came out from his corner for the fourteenth round much stronger than he was in the thirteenth. He was apparently revived a bit by the minute's intermission McCleiland, however, would give him very little rest. He went at him hammer an dtongs. Attell danced away from hard raps, but McCleiland finally caught him near the south end of the ring and pummeled him about the ropes.

The fitteenth round was all McCleiland's, and the gong interfered just in time to save him.

McCleiland was loudly cheered when Harry Sharpe upbeld his hand in token of victory for the little Pittsburg miller.

He complained that Sharkey had struck him a foul blow, but said that he would not claim foul if allowed to recover from its effects. This was granted and he rested for several minutes. Then he went tack at Sharkey in a manner which was vixorous enough to preclude the idea that he had been injured. He could not stop Tom, however, and the sailor received the verdict.

Washington University of St. Louis won the A. A. U. handicap meet at the World's Fair Stadium yesterday afternoon, with a total of 18 points. The Maryland Athletic Club of Baltimore, with only three men starting, took second place with 14 points. The track and field were in bad condition and slow time was made on the cir-cuit, while the ground in the infield was weights were thrown they would sink bevault was started while the rain was pourvery high, as their hands would slip from the water on the pole.

against, and were handleapped by a slow track and bad field.

The pole vault event went one, two, three to St. Louis. The bar was set at 162 inches, and Dan Dillon of St. Louis University was the only vaulter who could clear this height in three trials. Gwynne Evans of the Missouri Athletic Club and R. C. Williams of the Washington University made the distance in four vaults, however, and in the try for escond place Evans won at 162 inches. Williams thereby secured third place.

Ten and one-fifth seconds was the fastest time made in the hundred-yards dash, and this gives an illustration of how slow the cinder path was, when many of the Easterners who were competing are in the habit of doing this distance in ten flat, and even faster than this.

W. Hall of Washington University, with a handleap of sixty yards, won the mile run with ease from L. H. Burkhardt of the Y. P. A. New York, who had a lead of soventy-five yards at the start, and E. P. Carr of the Xavier Club with a handleap of twenty-five yards at the start, and E. P. Carr of the Xavier Club with a handleap of twenty-five yards. G. P. Duriey and A. W. Holderness of West Point finished fourth and fifth, respectively.

In the two-mile run five men started, but only four finished. R. Todd of the N. W. B. A. C. of New York finished first, with a lead of fifty yards ahead, with J. H. Lousryan of the N. A. C. of Brooklyn, who gained the lead over
